Parking Secret

This fall, the must-have accessory is the CashKey, and it comes from Denver Parking Management. No more scrounging for change at those pesky parking meters, this programmable key works like a debit card so you'll always have meter money. (You'll notice the city of Denver parking meters have been outfitted with a round slot intended for the CashKey.)

Simply get yourself down to the parking management building at 110 16th St., Suite 780 during regular business hours and pick up a CashKey. A deposit of $15 (it's refundable upon return) is required and then with an initial purchase of $25 the cashier will fill your CashKey. Afterwards, clip it to your keychain and kiss those parking tickets goodbye.

The key has been available for a year now, but we think the meter maids have been keeping it under wraps in the interest of job security.

For more information on the CashKey, call 720-913-5359.
